

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Appellate Judge
WARREN E. SETTLE.
For Congress
HON. BEN JOHNSON.

It doesn't seem quite so impossible now to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

With the price of mutton going up, one can hardly afford to wear a sheepish look nowadays.

No, son, there is no Cook Book that we know of which will give you any information concerning the North Pole controversy.

When we contemplate the increased prices of shoes, we are reminded that it is harder to keep sole and body together now than formerly.

It is said that motoring causes baldness in women nowadays. Sh! Don't say a word. Just cut the first two lines of this little item out and paste them on the family mirror.

Considering the high price of the animal, people who "act the hog" nowadays are supposed to show some personal worth besides the well known characteristics of a porker.

Mr. Roosevelt slew about a dozen white rhinoceros while on his African trip. Probably he intends to make this animal the party emblem, with the inference that if it must be white, it must also be of an uglier and more vicious breed.

The Kentucky State Journal, edited by ex-Gov. Beckham, made a brave and conservative fight in the interest of the people during the recently closed session of the Legislature. Mr. Beckham is a clean and forceful writer, and has made his paper a power in Kentucky journalism.

The process of cold storage, a great blessing in the preservation of food stuffs, seems destined to become a menace to lower reasonable prices, in that it enables dealers to store away supplies and dole them out to consumers at whatever price that seems profitable to the dealer.

It is said that much of the vote which elected Gov. Willson came from the veteran ex-Confederates of the State who felt that they were aiding a friend. But Gov. Willson didn't feel inclined to reciprocate and promptly vetoed the bill giving these valiant war horses a pittance in their old and helpless age.

It does seem like there ought to be some sort of law which would compel the Legislature to stay in continuous session (except Sundays) during the time allotted for its work. There were several unnecessary adjournments during the recent session of our Legislature, during which much good time was wasted.

Gov. Willson gave as his excuse for not signing several bills passed by the recent Legislature, that it would incur too much extra expense upon the State Treasury. But he did not hesitate a minute nor blink an eyelash in signing Senate bill 347 appropriating $3,000 annually as "expense money" for the Governor.

One of Mr. Rockefeller's ex-pastors said of him last week: "He is the noblest, gentlest and sweetest soul that I ever met." Oh, dear! Oh, gosh! How fine must be the experience of not only being the richest person in all the country, but to have some good man say that you are an angel along with it.

That wealth should bear its proper burden or proportion of taxation, no one will deny. That it does not now do so in a general and comprehensive sense, is generally admitted. The Democratic party, being a party of the people, its principles advocating justice towards all, can hardly afford not to commit itself to the policy of an income tax.

That brotherly kindness and christian solicitude which prompts a person to go to another in trouble, speak a kind word or lay a gentle hand upon the troubled one's shoulder, in pure human love, is a beautiful theory and a matter much talked about and advocated, but in absolute reality seldom practiced. Haven't you observed or found this true?

And yet, although some of us are reminded of the matter almost every day, the express companies are allowed to preserve their exorbitant and unreasonable charges. It is a matter which affects a great many people and while nearly all of us condemn the nefarious scheme, it is not so much difference in the seems that we must sit idly by and watch these companies grow powerful and opulent.

It seems that Kentucky is to go two more years at least without anything being accomplished in a legislative or tangible manner in the way of good roads. In the meantime the promoters of this laudable enterprise, and especially those who undertook to effect legislation in the premises, will have time to further investigate and consider, taking recent events as a basis.

"In times of peace prepare for war" is a good maxim, as is also the sentiment which impels one in times of contentment to prepare for trouble. These thoughts suggest themselves when Hartford citizens contemplate the fact that although we have had no very serious fire in our little city for years, yet we have no adequate fire protection. Some sort of organization should be perfected which would give us quick means of aiding ourselves in case of fire. What say you, and what shall we do about it?

DID NOT "HOG" US.

The editor of the Hartford Republican in commenting on the change in the time of holding the courts in this, the Sixth Judicial District, says:

"The new Court Bill just passed by the Legislature which changes the time of holding Circuit Courts in Ohio county was promoted by Daviess county enterprise and of course Daviess county gets all the best of the bargain. The terms in Ohio county are placed in the busy season of the year when farmers must stop planting corn and harvesting wheat and hay in order to go jury service. The worst feature of the measure however, is the fact that under it we will have eight months with only one term of court and four months with three terms. It seems to us that Daviess county might have given us a better distribution of the courts, even if she did hog the rest of the time."

In order that the public may see how far wrong the above statement is, we publish the dates and time of holding the courts in Daviess and Ohio counties under the new court bill. If the Republican had cared to be accurate it could have seen that under the present arrangement there are 162 judicial days allotted to Daviess county as shown by statute, section No. 965, and that the courts were held as follows: At Owensboro, three terms, beginning third Monday in January, 36 judicial days; first Monday in June and October, 36 judicial days each, and three terms, second Mondays in April and December, 18 judicial days each, and fourth Monday in August, 18 judicial days.

Under the new court bill Daviess county only asked for 114 judicial days, distributed as follows: Three terms, fourth Monday in February 30 judicial days; first Monday in September, 24 judicial days and first Monday in December, 24 judicial days, and three terms beginning on the first Monday in January, 12 judicial days; fourth Monday in May, 12 judicial days; and first Monday in November, 12 judicial days. Thus it can be seen instead of hogging Ohio county or any one else it has lessened its time by 8 weeks or 48 judicial days, while Ohio county has the same number of judicial days in the new as the old arrangement.

Ohio county has, under the statute, 60 judicial days as follows: First Monday in March, 18 judicial days; August, 18 judicial days; third Monday in May, 12 judicial days and third Monday in November, 12 judicial days. Under the new bill Ohio county has the same number of judicial days as follows: First Monday in February, 18 judicial days; third Monday in April, 12 judicial days; second Monday in June, 18 judicial days and third Monday in October, 12 judicial days. The fact is, as is shown from the above, the only changes made is, the March term to February; May term to April; the August term to June, and November term to October.

THEN AND NOW.

The size of the ordinary docket—jury trials in the Daviess Circuit Court at the January term, 1904, the first court held by Judge T. F. Birkhead, as compared with the ordinary docket—jury trials, at the January term, 1910, the beginning of his second term is very complimentary to the work of Judge Birkhead. At the January term, 1904, there were 112 ordinary cases on the set trial docket in the Daviess Circuit Court to be disposed of by jury. At the January term, 1910, six years later, there were only 9 cases on the set trial docket to be disposed of by jury. While there is not so much difference in the ordinary docket—jury trials, in the Ohio Circuit Court, there is a marked difference in the time it takes to dispose of these matters.

Two of the three weeks of the March term, 1904, were taken up in criminal cases and the third week in disposing of the ordinary docket jury trials, in civil cases. In fact the docket was so congested at that time that a number of the jury trials had to be set forward to the next term. At the March term, 1910, the first in Judge Birkhead's second term, it only took a few hours to dispose of the criminal docket, and the jury trials ordinary docket, consumed only about eight of the eighteen days allotted for the March term of the Ohio Circuit Court.

OUR NEW SERIAL.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the serial story, "The Riverman," which started in the last issue of The Herald and the second installment of which appears on our second page to-day. There are 36 chapters in all and it will be printed in successive allotments of such size as seem convenient, to the end. It is a romance which breathes the atmosphere of the forest; a tale full of the rim and vigor of pioneer life; a story which grips the reader's interest and holds it to the end.

It cost The Herald $15 to buy the copyright privilege of reproducing this story for its readers. You will find it well worth the reading. It would be well for you to preserve each copy of The Herald containing this romance until the end and then you will have the story complete. It is both elevating and interesting and we sincerely hope our readers will enjoy it.

Henderson, Ky., March 19—The record price for hogs was made to-day in a sale of forty hogs at 13½ cents a pound. The hogs averaged 200 pounds, and brought the owner, Thomas Baskett, $1,080. The sale was made to a local butcher.

Will It Never Stop.

County Judge R. R. Wedding is in receipt of a letter from the State Board of Equalization, at Frankfort, Ky., notifying him that 15 per cent. has been added to the assessed value of all farming land, personal property and town lots in Ohio County, Kentucky. The Judge informed us that a delegation of representative citizens and taxpayers of Ohio county will be sent to Frankfort to protest against the raise. April 6th is the day set for Ohio county's hearing. If the taxes keep being increased the question is, how the people are to meet these burdens. We are informed that a much greater raise has been made in some other counties of the State.

Forty-Five Killed.

AT AN EASTER SERVICE.

Kneeling beside her, 'midst a kneeling throng
In the dim twilight of the temple where
We Easter buds, scent-laden, filled the air
With sweet aroma, and the solemn song
Low chanted, floated thru the holy place.
I watched the curtain of her melting eyes
Veil their soft radiance, and o'er that fair face
Hale reverent stillness, as with gentle sigh
Sins from her sinless lips were soon confessed
(Oh, fairest saint, were all sins but as thine!)
